MEMBERS Discount

As you would be all aware, as a stallholder of ASFM you are required to give members a full 10% discount on all products sold. This discount is to be a genuine 10% dollar value discount and not a value added by offering more product for the same price. Both the members price and the non members price are to be displayed on all items for sale as per the Stallholders Rules and Responsibilities - "2.2.10. On sighting an ASFM membership card, the Stallholder, or person operating the Stall, must provide to members of ASFM at least a 10% discount off the full-price of products. (Stallholders are entitled to ask any member to produce their current membership card before applying this discount). The Stallholder must clearly display both the full-price and the discounted members' price for all products sold at the Stall." We have been alerted by a number of customers that there are stalls not providing this discount. Please note: Providing the discount to members is requirement of your right to trade at the ASFM.

TEST & Tagging

Electrical Test & Tagging is scheduled to be carried out from Tuesday 15 March and finishing Wednesday 16 March by an accredited tradesman and the cost of this is covered by the market as part of the market day power charges. Instructions will be issued in next weeks newsletters but for those of you not here next week, please download instructions from here.

Have you had your SAY?

Have you had your say yet? The Federal Government is exploring ways to improve Australia's domestic organic regulations. Or indeed if you are a conventional farmer or food producer, farmers market manager, be sure to log on to the survey: <https://haveyoursay.awe.gov.au/organics>
